FAMS FO SALE.

W. H. Hooper offers the N.E. 1 35-8-19 on Lake Clementi, upon which is a stone stable 60x32, a granary of 800 bushels capacity; a good farm house, well and pump, the Lake front under wire fence, and enough young timber to more than pay for the place. The trees for transplanting can be sold at 50 cents each, and there is a sure and growing demand. This particular quarter is suitable, and can be made at once a popular summer resort. The land is of the best quality, and will be left summer-fallow.

Also the W 1 33-8-19 upon which are 260 acres freshly broken and will be backset. The breaking was done before the rains, and will be in a particularly fine condition for next year's crop.

There is perhaps nowhere in this vicinity, so large an area of beautiful black land, trending away to the north, and with a gentle incline just sufficient for drainage. South of the breaking and backset, it are the Brandon Hills, and some beautiful ravines sufficiently large to grow market stuff enough to supply the city of Brandon. Cherries, Saskatoons, Cranberries, and Hops abound in these ravines, and 500 head of stock could be wintered without other than the natural protection.

One of the hills, or more properly Mountains, is the highest in the Range and the prospect from the PEAK is well worth the trouble of inspection, and ought to be one of the points of interest to tourists.

Irrigation, while imperfectly understood in the main, and lightly disposed of by those unacquainted with its workings, will in the immediate future be introduced in farming in this country.

There is a flowing well at the foot of the range, of beautiful, sparkling water, cold as glacier rills, sufficient in volume not only to irrigate the 260 acres beneath it, but the entire valley.

These properties will be sold at figures that the first crop will pay for.

W. H. HOOPER.

Best Ever Held in This City.

SUMMER FAIR.

The directors and members of the Brandon Agricultural Society are to be congratulated on the success of the summer fair held in this city last week. The number of entries was larger than on any previous year and of a better quality. It has been shown that this Brandon Show has gained considerably favor throughout this North West country, especially amongst the stock breeders and agriculturists. A large number of visitors from the east were present, and were simply surprised at the grain grown here, and also the length of the straw. Samples of wheat, oats, barley and rye were exhibited in the sheaf, and measured over five feet. They were also delighted with the fine dairy exhibit, and pronounced it equal to any seen in Ontario and the Eastern Provinces.

THE EXPERIMENTAL FARM EXHIBIT.

Mr. Bedford of the above farm, had, as usual, on exhibition a splendid display of grain, grasses, fodder plants and flowers. Of green growth there was about thirty-five varieties of wheat, and about a dozen of both oats and barley. A very large number of the visitors visited the Farm, and were well paid for the trouble.

THE IMPLEMENT DISPLAY.

The display of the different implement firms of this city, was the largest that has ever been on the grounds. A great deal of interest was taken by the visitors on this branch, and each firm did their best to show off their goods to the best possible advantage.

Smith & Sheriff.

This firm had on exhibition one of the Advance Threshers of Toronto, with Advance Traction Engine, a Deering binder and mower, the Buford Plows, and Speight wagons. They report having sold a few threshers and other implements, besides a large quantity of binding twine which they had just received during the past week.

Laidlaw, Green & Co.

This well known firm showed a traction engine manufactured by Stevens & Burns of London, Ont. This engine was under the guidance of one of the firm, Mr. Green, which brought great praises both to the engineer and engine for the work done. They also showed a portable J.I.C. separator, also a novelty in the shape of a Jok that allows the running of a separator at any angle from the engine. The latter was well spoken by the farmers that examined the same, and greatly diminish the risk of fire to machine and stalks during threshing time. They have been awarded by exhibiting, the sale of a couple of threshing outfits with a promise of four more orders.

W. JOHNSTON.

The veteran implement man of 9th street was on the grounds, with a number of the celebrated McCormick binders and mowers, Draper's spade harrows, Canton harrows, Canton Sulky walking and gang plows, also the Rossouw wagons. He reports having made quite a number of sales and is well pleased with the business done during the fair.

PATTERSON BROS.

Mr. A. S. Patterson the general manager for Manitoba, for the above firm was present, and had on the grounds a Minneapolis traction engine and three separators, also a Reeve's straw stacker which created a great deal of interest. Also the Patterson binder and mower, Flying Dutchman plows and snowball wagons. Mr. Thos. Kelly, the agent at this place reports business very good during the exhibition.

HARRIS, SON & CO.

The above firm also had a large variety of implements, including the well known Bradford binder and mower, the Wissner seeder, Bain wagons, the Royal hay rake and the Cockshut's stable and gang plows. Mr. Merritt was in charge.

MERCER CO.

The special exhibit of this firm was their new binder without canvas. On the second day of the fair they tested the machine in a field of green wheat south of the show grounds and worked well.

Mr. Mercer one of the firm is here at present, showing the machine. Quite a number were sold during the past week.

Mr. Wood is agent at this place.

SYLVESTER BROS.

The exhibit of this firm consisted of their Sylvester binders, mowers and rakes and Thompson & Son's gang walking and sulky plows. Sylvester monitor press drill and a number of cutaway harrows.

Mr. J. Clegg who is agent at this place reports sales numerous during the past week.

FROST & WOOD.

Although this firm has only lately started an agency in this city, they have received a very large percentage of the sale of implements in this district. They had on exhibition a binder and mower, the new Model Buckeye, Tiger horse rakes, Springfield wagons, the new Dual gang and sulky plows, Frost & Wood stable plows, and the Lion disc harrows. They report a few sales during the exhibition.

McKENNA & RUSSELL.

This firm had a splendid exhibit of buggies, Gladstones phaetons, buffalo road wagons with Whitechapel body, some of their own make and of the firm of John Campbell of London, Ont.

J. S. GIBSON.

He also had a splendid assortment of Percheron horses, which won the first and second prizes in the Percheron class at the summer fair were imported from France last year. This company have imported a large number of this class, and have been very successful.

These horses are kept on the Experimental farm, and their prices are very moderate.

Mr. Joseph Hebert is manager at this place, and is a gentleman who is well up in his business.

The following are the list of entries shown, apart from the Experimental farm exhibit and the machinery.

Horses 352; cattle, 134; sheep, 83; pigs, 26; grain and seeds, 65; vegetables, 44; dairy products, 41; poultry, 46; domestic manufacture and ladies work, 221; making a total of 1,062 entries.

In the baseball tournament, Rugby defeated Brandon a score of 18 to 12.

BRANDON MAIL

THURSDAY, JULY 30, 1891.

ISOLATED FACTS FOR THE ELECTORS OF NORTH BRANDON.

Our readers will remember the row Messrs. Sifton and Co. raised in the country in the days of the Norquay regime over the celebrated "coal steal" by which the late Mr. Norquay took $2,000 out of the treasury and paid his own endorsement to the coal company, subsequently getting coal for the province in return. Let us contrast Martin's act in return, in taking $1,700 out of the treasury to pay the cost of legal suits and getting in return nothing but humiliation and disgrace.

Do the electors remember all the changes the Greenwayite party, chief amongst whom was Mr. Sifton, wrong and the wrongs the country was suffering under the C. P. R. monopoly and for the lack of completing railways? One would naturally think with the removal of the monopoly and the realization of the competing roads the country should have substantial benefits. Mr. Greenway and his colleagues said on the floor of the House they would result in giving the farmer 10 cents a bushel more for his wheat and save $400,000 on a single year's crop. The question simply is are they getting those benefits? Before the N. P. was built to Brandon in the spring of 1889, there has been continual reductions on the wheat rates of the C. P. R. in all from 41 cents in 1883 to 24 cents in 1888 in all 17 cents from Brandon to Port Arthur in five years. This the reader will remember was before the construction of the N. P. Since then the only reduction was 2 cents per 100 lbs or 11.5 cents a bushel last fall. This latter is all Manitoba has got for its bonus of $700,000. Have the promises and pledges of Greenway, Sifton, et al been made good? Have the people in 1.5 cents got the 10 cents they were promised. If not they have been deceived, and if deceived why should they again place confidence in their deceivers. In the contest in North Brandon do they have an excellent opportunity to express their convictions.

In the Reform Tory job the people have another occurrence of the reckless extravagance and robbery of the government. They say they were justified in building the reformatory but the history of the first two years is proof they were not. It has cost in hard cash for its construction $38,000 and about $5,000 a year for its operation and so far they have had but one inmate. Is that not proof it was not required and that the expenditure on it is a willful waste of public funds. The next done is a salary of $2,000 a year to Mr. Sifton's father as inspector of public buildings, a position that never would have been created but for the desire to care for the old man.

The next waste is the creation of the Reformatory into a second asylum simply because the building is there. Orillia has the smallest asylum in Ontario, and that has 310 inmates cared for by one set of officials. In the asylum at Selkirk there are less than 100 inmates, and the Greenway Government, with Mr. Sifton's approval are creating the second one. The cost of the present asylum is $35,000 annually or $350,000 apiece for the inmates while the cost in the Orillia establishment to Ontario is but $150 each. Sifton & Co. are adding the second asylum to Manitoba at a cost of $12,000 a year rendering the care of our unfortunate $470 each. Now honestly do the electors approve of this? If they do they will endorse Mr. Sifton.

Mr. Sifton approves of the present infamous exemption laws, in that they give all the advantages to the professional dead beat in the cities. The farmer for instance is allowed provision for his family and his cattle but for 30 days, while the townsman can sport his $300 worth of household furniture and defy the bailiff. Mr. Cliffe approves of allowing but $100 worth of household furniture exempt, and protecting a year's provisions for the farmer and also his crops from being sacrificed by the creditor and sold below their value. Which do the farmers of North Brandon approve of?

Mr. Sifton thinks there is nothing wrong in the "$500 a mile" N. P. contract simply because he was a supporter of it although it would in any event have cost the people $8000 a mile, in interest on the guarantee of $6,400 a mile at 5 per cent for 25 years; but Mr. Sifton is one of the innocents abroad when the record of his colleagues are under review. Now A. F. Martin and Dr. Hagarty in the Martin-Free Press libel suit swore positively Martin acknowledged to them the $500 a mile was to go to the promoters. In any case the terms of the contract left little possible. Had there been a proper contract drawn up it would not have been possible and the country would have been saved the humiliation and disgrace into which it has been thrust by Martin, Greenway, Sifton & Co.

THE MANITOBA GOVERNMENT AND THE HUDSON BAY RAILWAY.

The changes the Greenwayites, including Mr. Sifton, have wrought and are still ringing on the Hudson's Bay Railway are numerous and unique. In 1886 Mr. Martin and Mr. Greenway induced the late Government to guarantee the bonus of the Company to the extent of four and a half millions for 20 years at four per cent. This would have entailed a cash payment of $3,600 on the Manitoba people. At Virden Mr. Greenway characterized the act as a fool hardy piece of legislation. As he and his colleague were the fathers of it, it may have been fool hardy enough. It remained on record, however until Martin saw the $500 a mile contract in view. The next position was a positive refusal to assist the line or any other road outside of the boundaries of the province, and all they would give was $2,000 per mile for 300 miles or $600,000. This course was refused.

The third proposition was a double barrelled one—one to guarantee the bonus for $1,400,000, which would have entailed a payment of $1,100,000 on the province. The second barrel of that offer was a present cash payment of $750,000. This offer also was refused, and in his anxiety to bolster up, Mr. Martin, in the Selkirk election, who was the father of the measure. Mr. Sifton declared in and out of season, that was all Manitoba could afford to pay. A month had not elapsed however, before Mr. Sifton reported in the House, an act to double that sum and make the cash payment a million and a half. This last offer was no doubt made because of a knowledge obtained through the defeat of Martin that the people were resolved on having the Hudson's Bay Road. But what assurance have we even now that that offer will be continued. The fact that there is a contract under seal between the government and the R. R. Company amounts to nothing. The Call printing Co. at one time had a contract under seal with the government for printing, and Messrs. Greenway & Co. cancelled it, and passed an act to prevent the Call, from taking its case before the courts. Cannot the Government as well cancel Hugh Sutherland's contract, and pass another Act to muzzle the courts. We believe Mr. Sifton three years ago told the electors of North Brandon he was opposed to this Muzzling Bill, but so far he has never uttered a word against it in the courts. If a representative does not carry out what he represents as his convictions in three years there is but little hope of his doing it in ten. Do not the electors of North Brandon fully understand this?

An exposing of the fraud in the voters lists took place at Douglas on Tuesday last before His Honor Judge Ryan. It is well the honest electors of Manitoba one and all fully understood. It is not enough that an attempt should have been made to have forced on the country a law that would have allowed the opposition but two weeks in which to collect their names after the Registration clerk had been appointed, and before the lists were closed; and which in the case of North Brandon would have allowed but three days, as the Gazette announcing Mr. Swallow's appointment was not circulated until eleven days after his appointment had been made. But now for the rest. The law provides that all electors must be resident in the province 6 months immediately prior to the 15th of May. In the revision of Tuesday there were names shown to be on the list, of men who had not been residents in the constituency for two years or more. The registration clerk, Mr. Swallow admitted he had the declarations for them, the last revised list showed they were non-resident, and how he got the names he knew not nor was any one able to tell him. But this was not the worst. Affidavits bearing the signatures of J. M. Robinson, J. P. of this city were produced of which that gentleman swore he had no knowledge. These so-called affidavits were made by men who had at the time not been residents of Manitoba for three months and some of them by men who had, at the time, not been two days residents of the constituency. Mr. Lewis Clement, deputy sheriff, an official that ought to be non-political testified that he drove around to those parties with Mr. T. M. Morgan, a money lender of this city, who took these papers into the houses of these parties, and come out with them completed in his hands, and that is all the public know of the matter. Probably if Mr. Morgan was sworn he would place the responsibility for the fraud on others and so the things go along the line. Now either Mr. Robinson signed the affidavits in blank, or he signed them with the parties before them, making them commit falsehoods, if nothing worse, as he acknowledges the signatures. To give Mr. Robinson his due we do not believe he would knowingly commit the wrong, but fraud it is none the less, and what he is to blame for is allowing his name to be used as it was. Of course a signature to an affidavit before it was made renders the affidavit useless, or no affidavit at all, and

Farmers to Combine.

A Huge Wheat Trust to Be Formed by United States Farmers.

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 23.—This city has been made the headquarters of a movement by the United Farmers' Alliance to corner the whole wheat crop of the United States. For several days a large force of employees at 317 Wabash street has been sending out circulars regarding the formation of a "trust." It estimates the wheat crop of 1901 in the United States at 500,000,000 bushels. The promoters believe that four-fifths of this wheat can be held back for from four to six weeks, by which time it is thought, the price will have gone away up. The alliance press bureau, reform press bureau, and the state press bureaus are working together and endeavoring to unite the farmers in a gigantic wheat trust, in which producers shall be stockholders, and by which speculators and wheat buyers will be squeezed to the wall.

Millions of Gold Found.

In the Vault of an Old Castle at Rio Janeiro $70,000,000 Are Discovered.

News has been received of the discovery of an enormous treasure in one of the subterranean vaults of the old castle of San Antonio, at Rio Janeiro, where it has lain hidden since some time in the last century. The discovery was made by the chief engineer, who for some time had been engaged in the demolition of the castle of San Antonio. After it was converted into a castle San Antonio was a monastery under the control of the Jesuits, and it was during this period of its history that the treasure is supposed to have been hidden. Underneath the castle are vaults built like the corridors of a mine, and in one of these a large number of cases, chests and bundles were discovered. An examination of the contents of these chests and packages resulted in a most astonishing discovery. The 122 wooden cases contained gold to the value of about $70,000,000. The gold consisted of old Portuguese crusades (ancient mints worth about 50 cents each) and the accounting of the treasure was verified by documents found in the cases. Among the papers found was a receipt of Friar Desiré Anton, superior of the order of Jesuits, acknowledging the receipt of 20,000,000 crusades in gold to be turned over to Don John Y. as a tribute of honor upon his voyage to Brazil.

The Rifle.

The score for the Canadian Military Rifle League was 569 points while that for the Northwest Rifle League team was 416. Pte. Tom Hudson and Sgt. McGregor put on 93 and 80 respectively for their teams, a record which would be hard to beat anywhere in Canada. The following made over 60 points:

WINNING A WIFE.

They Roam Arkansas and Roam
the Tame Species.

The Animals Said to Have Frequented a Certain Locality for Twenty-Five Years —Some of Their Quirr Characteristics.

The discovery has recently been made that a species of wild dogs exists in this country, writes a Eureka Springs (Ark.) correspondent of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. The fact that they have been here for more than a quarter of a century has been known to some of the old citizens, who seem to have thought the matter of small importance, and consequently a valuable contribution to science and history is yet to be published.

Mr. Jacob Everman, a citizen of this town, is the first man to investigate the matter and establish the fact that these dogs are unlike any breed of dogs known in this country.

Everman is an old woodsman and hunter and keeps a pack of as fine foxhounds as ever "gave music to the hunter's horn." One morning recently he went into the woods alone, and his dogs not scenting a trail in the locality where foxes have always seemed so plentiful, he extended the hunt several miles further into the mountains than usual.

When he reached the headwaters of Clifty, in what is known as Panther canyon, he heard the dogs baying at something in the distance, and hurrying up to them, at the root of a large black oak tree he saw what he supposed to be a black wolf snarling and snapping at them furiously, but as soon as it saw him wheeled and ran off at great speed. He discovered that it was not a wolf, but a dog of some kind.

He hissed and urged the dogs to give it chase, and they started in pursuit, but he thought, rather reluctantly, and returned after following a short distance. Looking into the hollow of the tree, he found four small pups, probably about two weeks old, which the mother had been defending so savagely.

Having no means of taking them with him, he returned the next day prepared to carry them home, but when he went to the tree again they were gone.
After considerable hunting his dogs found them secreted in a tree some three hundred yards from the hollow tree. He brought them home, and they are growing finely under domestic care. These young dogs are black, the hair being finer and more resembling fur than that of the tame dog, and their feet are like the feet of a cat; their toenails turn under and are longer and sharper than those of the domesticated dog.

Since the capture of these puppies some of the old mountaineers who lived here in ante-bellum days have been telling what they know concerning these wild dogs, and from the best authenticated accounts Everman can gather they now number as many as twenty and probably more, and are frequently seen, but seldom more than three or four together. There is a tradition that there were wild dogs in this vicinity when the earliest white settlers came here, but whether they were left by the original occupants of the country or were an distinct a wild species as those found in South America, Australia and the countries of the far east no one pretends to explain.

The country in which these dogs are found is one of the most inaccessible regions in the state. It abounds in high mountains, deep gulches and dense forests, and is seldom visited, and those who do visit it are hunters and farmers who have stock to stray into it. The dogs have seldom been seen out of this particular locality in the daytime, but it is known that in late years they come into the settlements at night and commit great depredations by killing the sheep, goats and other small animals belonging to the farmers. Several have been killed from time to time by hunters.

Once on one occasion they have been known to attack man. Many have mistaken them for wolves, but the experienced woodsmen have always concluded that they were not wolves. They are invariably black, and a black wolf is a rarity in this part of the country.

Then they are not so large as the timber wolves, and do not seem so active in their movements. They have never been known to howl or make such demonstration by barking. It is said that when discovered in some dense shrub they usually utter a kind of terrible bark and make off at great speed.
They show no inclination to affiliate with the domestic dogs, and will fight them with great courage. They are of medium size, having rather small heads, with small pointed ears, slender limbs and long, bushy tails. In some respects they look as though they might be allied to the Esquiman dog, except that their hair is not so long and the nose so small and fox-like. Then there is another peculiar feature about these dogs. They carry their tails in a horizontal position like the fox, while the Esquiman dog carries his caudal ap-pendage in a short curve.

Old Religions in Russia.
Russia has of late harbored more esoteric and mysterious religious sects than any other country under the sun. One of these has for some months past created great perturbation in the province of Voron. This new creed, the members of which are called "sharers," or "shearers," is extraordinary to an incredible extent. The inhabitants of all the villages in the province above mentioned discovered in the morning, one after the other, that their fowls have been plucked of their feathers, their sheep shorn of their wool and the tufts of their mams and tails, and that the feathers, wool and hair thus obtained have been burned as a sacrifice to some unknown divinity. The peasants are terrified at the depredations of the "shearers," who are, they believe, inspired by an evil spirit, and complaints are being sent by them to the authorities. The delinquents, however, are so careful to avoid detection that up to this day it has been impossible to catch any of them in the act.

A HINDOO WEDDING.

Mr. Claymer, of Texas, and His Remarkable Trade.

Everybody said that Ben Claymer was "crazy," and no one thought more strongly than Marian Harper, who had been the object of his eccentric attention for many months. She, being a student of human nature, was calmly amused with this "odd freak," as she called him.

"I'm a puzzle, Aunt Jane," she said; I don't know whether to think him a genius or an idiot. Sometimes I'm more than half-inclined to believe the latter."

When Claymer called on Marian, it would seem that he took no note of time, and only the broadest hints from her would arouse him. Then he would smile good-humoredly, and say: "What's the use of going anywhere, anyway?
Just about the time I get to feeling settled and at home, somebody tells me to go. Poor little Joe! 'Move on!'"

For several months his visits would be regular and often, and then cease altogether, while for weeks he would confine himself closely to his work.

Marian paid no attention to these sudden falls of temperature, having long since ceased to wonder at anything he did, and when, after about a month's absence, he reappeared, she greeted him as usual and never called him account for his neglect.

Mr. Claymer was a "struggling" journalist, whose fortune was yet to be made, and Marian was the daughter of a distinguished lawyer in good circumstances. Perhaps this is the reason why Claymer never indulged any tender sentiments in all his long talks with Marian. They discussed the tariff, labor question, science and religion, and Marian proved herself thoroughly interested in all these weighty subjects, being an industrious reader who always kept "posted." She captured the intellect of Ben Claymer just as her sweet womanly ways had conquered his heart. Claymer was a politician to the bone, and enthusiastic friends said that he should enter politics for himself instead of spending all his time and energy in working for others. This Claymer refused to do, and continued, with the greatest good humor, to play jackal to inferior lions much after the manner of Sidney Carter.

"He has no ambition," Marian said to herself. "Dear me! If I were his sister or his mother, or anything, wouldn't I stir him up, though? I have no patience with people who hide their lights under a bushel."

Once, when they had been discussing the marriage of a couple of their acquaintances (for one of Claymer's odd traits was that he took great interest in little gossip, and speculation concerning the affairs of people in general), Claymer said:

"Well, I think Parker did very wrong to ask Miss Webster to share his lot, which said lot is a myth, and all she will be called upon to share will be a stuffy room in a second-class boarding house; she leaves a comfortable, pleasant home, where everything is as she likes it, and expects to find greater happiness in a poultry yard. I should never ask a woman to share my lot unless it was every bit as good as the one she left."

"Young men shouldn't expect to begin where the old ones left off. When ma and pa joined their fortunes, their sole possessions were a log cabin with a dirt floor, and a twenty-dollar gold piece. Pa owned the mansion, and brought him the princely dower. When I hear them talk over those good old times, I feel sorry for commonplace, well-to-do persons who get married and through life without any real trouble or pleasure either."

"You may be right, but that is not my idea of fun." I think a poor man is a selfish brute when he wants a partner in poverty. Of course, it was different when your father was married; it was rather the fashion to be poor in those times, and people didn't mind it much."

"Poverty will never go out of fashion," laughed Marian, "unless Bellamy's plans are adopted."

"Miss Marian," said Claymer, solemnly, after several minutes of thought, "let me ask you a question in arithmetic.
What would be a fair exchange for a girl who is worth her weight in gold, and five hundred thousand dollars in actual cash?"

"A United States senator with a sixty-three ounce brain," promptly, replied she, with a twinkle in her eye.

Claymer's countenance dropped several degrees below zero, and he answered quietly: "Correct; go up head-

After that conversation Ben Claymer had another stay at home spell, and Marian saw him no more for three months. This was the longest spell he had ever had. She was on the eve of her departure for a European tour, and she was thinking: "How I hate to leave without bidding friend Benjamin goodbye," when she heard the click of the gate latch and turned to see the tall, slightly stooping form of Claymer coming up the gravel walk.

"You're just in time, Sir Truman," she called to him from the baleeny.

"Yes," said he, "I have just heard of your intended tour. How I envy you!
A European tour is the next thing to a trip to the 'promised land' in my list.
How can you leave us all so long, and by the way, how long shall you stay?"

His tone was light and cheery. Marian would not own to herself that she was disappointed to see him in such apparent good spirits, but she was. "We intend to go home three years," she said.

"We're just in time, Sir Truman,"
she called to him from the baleeny.

your intended tour. How I envy you!

Account of a Marriage in High Life at Bombay.

Strange Nuptials of the Brahmins—Queer Jewelry and Ornaments Worn by the Bride—The Mother-in-Law an Important Factor.

An interesting description of a Hindoo wedding, written by Sarah D. Hamlin from Bombay, appears in a recent issue of the San Francisco Bulletin, and from it the following extract is taken:

As it was growing late we felt that we had waited long enough, and prepared to proceed homeward. This seemed to be the signal for a new departure, and a procession was again formed. At the bride's house fresh changes had been made, but a "choroe" or marriage hall had been formed by placing at each of the four corners of a square earthenware water vessels, one above the other, and held in position by supports of bamboo.
In the center was the sacred fire.
Hardly had we arrived when every body took seats as before, though the cashmere-shawled father did not appear, and the bride and groom no longer sat opposite each other, but side by side.
The priests performed "fire sacrifice" before them and fastened the boy's scarf to the marriage veil of the girl. The wur mala, or marriage garland, composed of twenty-four strings of red cotton, was hung around their necks and their hands were again joined beneath the dirty scarf, the women sang nuptial hymns in honor of the gods Krishna and Rama, and then commenced a series of new performances in which the "bridegroom's mother-in-law" was the principal actor.

First a great platter of food was brought, which the mother presented to her daughter, who first gave it to her bridegroom, and he then helped her.
Red powder was put upon the forehead of both again and again, not only by priest, "bridegroom's mother-in-law," and the little brother, but by numerous female friends. Again and again was the immense platter, resembling a paint-shop with its various powders, brought forth. Hands and feet of bride and groom were rubbed with red powder, which is an emblem of prosperity, anointed with oil and washed with water. Hands were made to touch each other many times, and toes touches. We could see that the bride's little brown feet were heavy with toe-rings, whose pendants half-covered the feet, and the plainer toe-rings the mother was constantly removing from one foot to the other. Louder and louder grew the nuptial songs, and one high-voiced woman, the leader of the singers on our side of the "choroe," seemed to be firing challenges at the officiating priest, and he to be replying to her in an expostulatory manner.
Then the brass bands would begin, play a moment and stop; never by any accident in harmony. As the noise subsided for a time an immense brass platter was brought whereupon rice had been arranged somewhat in the form of the letter X, which is a mystic symbol used in religious ceremony. Next followed a moment of silence, then a roar of happiness and the noise began again.

Into the angles of the cross red powder was sprinkled by the priest, and surrounding friends began to throw copper coins upon it.
They seemed to be tossing for the fortunes of the young couple, one of whom, who seemed so weary and disgusted and half-blinded by the smoke, was repeatedly yawning and looking around, as if to ask if relief would ever come, while he was nearly roasted by the fire, so near which he was obliged to sit. A pan was brought in at this part of the proceedings, in which were two or three kinds of meal. Ghee, or clarified butter, being put upon the flour, the officiating woman, or the "bridegroom's mother-in-law," proceeded to stir it with her hand and to make a kind of dough, which bridegroom, bride, mother-in-law and priest each took a little and dropped on the fire, which was now burning brightly.

Finally, bride and groom arose, and he, with one arm around her neck, embracing her as though she were a porcupine, and they proceeded around the "choroe," guided by the priest and passing at each of the four columns of earthenware pots, where appropriate signs of worship were made. Singing, gesticulation and powdering followed, and as they sat again, the sacred betel-leaf was given to each, and they placed it upon the fire. Four times they made the circumambulation, and were told that if by any chance this was done only three times, it was no real marriage.

Robbing Country Towns.

The country towns most subject to robbery by bandits are those which lie on the line of several railroads, and are thus in communication with many different places by various routes. The "crackmen" arrive from the city by the latest train at night, after the residents are most of them asleep. They have four, five or six hours for their mafia work, and the earliest trains in the morning take them away with their plunder, before the good people of the town have fairly waked up. It is also to be noted that towns thus abundantly provided with railroad facilities are likely to be prosperous and therefore attractive to thieves. In all places wherever the police should be particularly watchful at and above the various railway stations. Indeed the inhabitants really need just as much police protection as the dwellers in our large cities.

One of these has for some months past created great perturbation in the province of Vezin. This new creed, the members of which are called "shearers," or "shearers," is extraordinary to an incredible extent. The inhabitants of all the villages in this province above mentioned discovered in the morning, one after the other, that their fowls have been plucked of their feathers; their sheep shorn of their wool and the horses of their manes and tails, and that the feathers, wool and hair thus obtained have been burned as a sacrifice to some unknown divinity. The peasants are terrified at the degradations of the "shearers" who are, they believe, inspired by an evil spirit, and complaints are being sent by them to the authorities. The delinquents, however, are so careful to avoid detection that up to this day it has been impossible to catch any of them in the act.

Colonel MacPherson's History Of Sir John.

On the 8th at the Russel House, Ottawa, Mr. W. Earle of the Earle Publishing House, St. John, N.B., completed arrangements with Colonel J. Pennington MacPherson, A.D.C., for the prompt publication of the late Sir John A. McDonald. The Colonel is a nephew of the late Premier.

Mr. Earle's firm controls the sale exclusive so that the book will be sold only by subscription through duty authorized agents. Mr. Earle left Ottawa on the 10th en route for Toronto with a view of arranging for the sale of the book there.

He also purposed visiting other cities. It may be added that the Earle Publishing House handles "Stanley's Darkest Hours" having secured the right through Messrs Charles Scribner's Sons of New York.

PICKED UP HERE AND THERE.

In Bradford County, Florida, is a hollow stump from which comes a noise similar to that of a boiling kettle.

In Cowita County, Washington, which has been settled for forty years and has 5,000 inhabitants, is a section covering several townships that has never been trodden by the foot of a white man. It is a dense, unpenetrated wilderness.

A LADY of Bremen, Me., has a parrot and an cat named Shag. She has taught the parrot to spell e-a-t, cat, d-o-g, dog, and a few such words, and the other day Polly electrified the household by spelling very loudly and plainly "e-a-t" and then pronouncing it "Shag." Perhaps Polly can't think.

The tower of the Philadelphia city hall is now 335 feet high, yet on the top of that 8,000 tons of iron and bronze are to be placed. There is to be a clock tower, the dials of which are to be twenty-seven feet in diameter, surrounded by a statue of William Penn thirty-seven feet high, and there will be numerous statues.

The little English sparrows have learned a new dodge since electric lights replaced gas in the New York city parks. When the current is turned off at dawn the bottoms of the globes are filled with hundreds of insects which have been attracted by the light and killed. The sparrows come around after the globe has cooled off, slide down the carbons and devour the insects.

A LITTLE two-year-old girl of Brooklyn, while playing on the second floor, managed in some way to fall out of the window, and would no doubt have been severely injured but for the fact that she pulled two pillows with her that were on the sill. She turned over in the fall and struck with both pillows underneath her. After a short cry she got up and resumed her game, this time, however, in the street.

It may be news to some men who smoke perfectos and Manuel Garcia at 20 cents apiece to learn that the list price of the better brands of Cuban stock runs up to $800 1,000. This means that they are 80 cents apiece at wholesale. Now with the duties paid and the profits expected on an article of this kind, they could not be sold for $3 straight, or about $2.00 a box. These cigars are bought by the royal families of Europe. There's not much market in America for cigars costing $2 each.

The most remarkable hotel in the world is in California, on the road between Santa Cruz and San Jose. It is a well-known fact that California possesses the largest trees in the world; and a shrewd Yankee hotel-keeper has conceived the idea of using a group of these mammoths, thus saving himself the cost of building or rent. The hollow trunk of one tree, whose circumference is about twenty-two yards, is arranged as a reception-room and the surrounding garden sheltered by a thick roof of spreading branches, serves as dining-room and smoking-room. A number of other smaller hollow trunks make comfortable bedrooms furnished in the most approved style; and some trees at a little distance are occupied by the hotel staff.

Why He Wanted a Nice Picture.

A local photographer tells a story of a young man who came into the studio one day and asked nervously if he might have a little conversation with him. The visitor was painfully ugly, and after some awkward blushing and indefinite allusions he asked the artist if he supposed he had among his samples a picture of any young man who looked like him, but was better looking. "What do you mean, young man?" asked the photographer. "Well," replied he, making a clean breast of it. "I am just engaged to be married. The young lady lives out west. She is going home to-morrow. She says she thinks I'm so good she doesn't mind my being homely, but she wants a good-looking picture to take home with her to show the girls." —Boston Traveler.

CARE OF THE HANDS.

Little Things That Will Keep Them in Good Condition.

Probably there is no one thing that makes girls shrink from house-work more than the effect it has on the hands, especially in cold weather, says Health. It is a real trial to sit down to the piano and spread a stained, rough hand on the ivory keys; or to take one's pen in an unsightly hand to answer a letter, or to pick up a bit of embroidery, if it is only that on perforated hose, and use the needle when every thing that touches the hands sticks to them because of their roughness. Sewing on woolen or silk is at such times a severe penance. There are methods of preserving the hands measurably against the destructive effect of dish-washing, scrubbing and the like. They should be kept as much out of the water as possible, and when the work is done they should be washed clean and rubbed dry. Borax water is good for washing the hands. Coarsely ground oat-meal is a fair substitute for soap in washing the hands. White unscented soaps are the best, as the highly scented soaps are usually made of rancid fat. A solution of oxalic acid will remove fruit stains from the hands, but it must not touch an abraded surface. After washing and drying the hands thoroughly, glycerine and spirits of camphor in equal parts mixed together is good to rub over them. Coconut oil is a pleasant application. Wearing kid gloves two sizes too large is helpful in preserving the hands. One should have an old pair of gloves to take up ashes in, to sweep in and to wear in all dirty work that permits the wearing of gloves. If gloves are dipped in not very hot linseed oil they become waterproof, and may be worn while washing dishes. A pair of cotton flannel mittens is pleasant to wear when hanging out the clothes on a cold morning. Frequent rubbing of the hands will promote circulation and keep the skin in good condition. To take the best care of the nails, soak the ends of the fingers in hot water for some time, until the skin is softened, then dry, and with a pair of nail scissors trim off all the dead skin about the nails, and trim the nails neatly.

DAIRY ASSOCIATION.

Address by Prof. Robertson.

The annual meeting of the Dairymen's Association of Manitoba was held on Thursday evening last. Mr. S. A. Bedford, super-intendant of the Brandon Experimental farm was called to the chair. Prof. Robertson, Dominion dairy commissioner, was present and gave an address. He congratulated the Brandon Agricultural society upon the success of their annual exhibition. Proceeding with his address he said the holding of the convention of the Dairymen's Association at the time of the agricultural show was a happy arrangement. In judging the butter at the exhibition he found the flavor and body of the butter excellent in nearly every lot. Some lots were selected by using coarse salt that had not dissolved. He was struck most by the fine horses, good cattle and superior physique of the people. The hopeful element of confidence in the country and its future were manifested on all sides. The temporary period of speculative farming and speculative business seemed to be giving way to sober effort to develop the resources of the country and establish permanent homes. More mixed farming and less exclusive grain growing will ensure steady profits to the farmers and make known the country in its most attractive aspects to intending emigrants from Europe. With a view to rendering all possible assistance in the taking up of mixed farming, the Minister of Agriculture has approved of a plan whereby he was permitted to have two dairy experts to give lessons in butter making and cheese making. Meetings will be held by these two gentlemen and instruction will be given at some fifty different places.
